OVERVIEW

SNAPSHOT OF THE COURSE

Digital transformation and interoperability are significantly reshaping social protection systems worldwide. The shift towards digitally supported administration and service delivery has the potential to dramatically enhance the efficiency, transparency and responsiveness of social protection programmes, enabling better coordination and improved outcomes for beneficiaries. However, navigating this complex transformation requires specialized skills, clear governance structures and robust institutional capacity. To effectively manage these digital transitions, institutions must build expertise in designing interoperable solutions, addressing technical and ethical challenges and ensuring that no one is left behind.

The Digital Convergence Initiative (DCI) Training Programme addresses precisely this need. Designed to strengthen institutional and human capabilities from the DCI partner countries, the training aims to equip social protection policymakers, programme managers and technical practitioners with the essential skills and knowledge to drive digital transformation sustainably and equitably. Through comprehensive, interactive and practical learning activities, participants will explore foundational concepts, technical competencies and leadership strategies critical to developing interoperable and rights-based digital social protection systems. The ultimate objective is to empower stakeholders to confidently lead digital transformation, creating resilient, adaptive and human-centered systems that meet both current and future social protection needs.

WHAT WILL I LEARN?

By the end of this training, participants will be able to:

- Understand the core concepts of digital transformation and interoperability and how they apply to social protection systems.
- Apply rights-based and human-centered principles in the design of digital social protection services and solutions.
- Identify the essential building blocks of interoperable digital ecosystems, including legal and regulatory frameworks, governance structures, data management, digital infrastructure, system architecture and technical standards.
- Strengthen strategic leadership and management capabilities to plan, coordinate and operationalize digital transformation across institutions and sectors.
- Critically assess the risks, opportunities, ethical considerations and impacts of digital transformation in social protection.
- Leverage global insights and peer learning to contextualize international good practices and adapt them to national priorities and implementation realities.

WHO TAKES THIS COURSE?

This training is designed for professionals from partner countries implementing DCI-supported projects, including:

- Policy advisors and decision-makers responsible for strategic oversight, policy development and ensuring alignment between national social protection goals and digital transformation efforts.
- Programme managers leading the design and implementation of digital initiatives, with a focus on operational effectiveness, service delivery and improved outcomes for beneficiaries.
- Technical specialists working in social protection institutions and agencies, involved in system design, data governance, interoperability and the implementation and maintenance of digital solutions.

As the training will be in English, proficiency in the language is required.

HOW?

This intensive five-day, in-person training consists of 60 total hours of learning and offers a highly interactive learning experience through:

- Expert-led presentations and facilitator-led discussions
- Practical exercises and case studies grounded in real-world challenges
- Group activities designed to foster peer learning and collaboration
- Action planning activities that enable participants to apply insights directly to their professional contexts

WHY SHOULD I JOIN?
